

Pr Arnaud Perrier

Arnaud Perrier, born on May 19, 1959, studied Medicine in the Geneva University Faculty of Medicine in Switzerland, from which he graduated in 1982.

After 2 years of basic research in renal physiology, he trained in internal medicine and in pulmonology in the Geneva University Hospital. He returned to a full time position in internal medicine in 1994 and is currently head of the Division of General Internal Medicine in the Geneva University Hospital, a 100-bed service.

His main research interests cover the field of venous thromboembolism, with the perspective of developing validated diagnostic and cost-effective diagnostic strategies.

His interests encompass medical education and he participated actively to the development and implementation of the new pregraduate curriculum of the Faculty of Medicine in Geneva. He currently chairs the clinical curriculum committee.